Hello, my name is Cielo and I am an advocate for all body types. I am covered from head (literally back of my head) to my fingers and down in tattoos. I started when I was 16. I got into modeling during my heaviest and deepest part of my eating disorder. I started these shoots to boost my confidence and also help other women who have different body types. I have since lost weight, and am getting more tattoos as we speak. I did get my hand and calf done in San Juan, Puerto Rico by a man named Marzaan, but all my beautiful work since I was 17 was done by Lila Rees at Rock City Tattoo in Barre, Vermont. I love animals, and all people. Modeling to me is a coping skill when I am feeling negatively toward my body and I want other women to know they can slay too. I am a mother to humans, dogs, snakes, goats, and chickens. I have been doing boudoir shoots since I was about 17. I absolutely love modeling my bigger frame, and also having dreadlocks isn't common, so I love modeling as a non-typical looking woman.

Being a 43-year-old mum to three children, 18 months ago I never dreamed of being a model. Life busy with kids, 2 cats, a full-time job and part time modelling career. I have an army of fans and sometimes I think I need a time machine to respond to all the messages I get. That is probably my biggest challenge now, finding the ideal balance between professional life, dedicating time to my children and still finding time for fans.

People do not seem to be aware that although you model, you do have a normal life 'off camera'. We work in offices, do chores around the house, take our kids to school. Having an international fan base is challenging too – my phone will go off in the middle of the night with calls and incoming text messages. Now my phone is constantly on silent! So please consider this before you send your next message to your modelling idol and do not expect an instant response.

There is much confusion between modelling and prostitution. Just because a woman can produce a sexy image on screen does not mean she is a sex worker. The sheer volume of messages that I receive asking for 'meet ups' or images of men's genitalia is ridiculous. Some men just cannot distinguish between the two occupations.

My hopes and aspirations for the world is that society will make progress with these out-of-date views and give models the much more deserved respect they should have.

I have achieved more than I ever imagined when I started this. I just planned on taking a few photos at a studio, and that was it. I didn't think I would be in magazines. A goal would be to do to more like WOW PHOTOSHOOTS!!
