When I was a little girl, always dreamed with beautiful women from the 50s and the glamour of the Golden Era of Hollywood. I wanted to look like them (of course), but I wasn't. When I turned 17, I enrolled in a modeling school to follow my dreams into become a model. In those days being only 5'6" high and a colored young girl wasn't enough. My opportunities was zero in an industry where the 5"11", extremely skinny white blonde women predominated. That was my biggest challenge, try to break through in a time when wasn't much opportunities for a girl like me; and turned every rejection into a positive thing.

After hundreds of rejected castings and never calls back, I changed my interests to achieve my goals through ballroom dancing; so I became a dancer.. I started taking dance classes and training for international competition winning couples awards in the Latin category. After that, I started getting notice in the industry in my beautiful island of Puerto Rico. Small part as an extra in dance commercial and a music video, and some opportunities as a model in the local TV. No much bus was a beginning. Dancing opened the doors for me to modeling in fashion shows and tours travel around the Caribbean, USA, Mexico, Peru, and Chile was the beginning.

I had achieves the opportunity to travel and performed national and international as a dancer, model, and spoke person. Being a published models in multiple magazine with four front cover under my modeling career. And the satisfaction where exterior type is longer an obstacle to reach your dreams.

I have dreams of being in front of the camera, but also behind it. I found a love for modeling different creative photo shoots, but also have started pursuing my dream of being a full time photographer. I currently work in a pharmacy, but I hope someday to work full time as my own boss doing photography full time. I want to inspire women because everyone is beautiful, and sometimes it takes the right person to help you see that. We all come in different shapes and sizes, and it's who you are that makes you gorgeous.
